Autumn is a transitional season. Sensing a change in the patterns of nature, our metabolism begins once again to slow down, changing the way our skin renews itself and produces moisture and protective oil. This means it's time once again to guide our skin through the inevitable changes in weather and mood brought on by the cooler, shorter days of autumn. Around this time, our skin loses tone and vitality; it becomes drier and our complexion paler. We therefore need to take special care of our skin to help it through this transition and throughout the season.

NIMUE skin care range offers many wonderful products to revitalise, rejuvenate and protect your skin at this time of year.

Nimue Rejuvenating Facial

This facial is not a chemical peel! It frees the top layers of the dead skin cells enabling them to shed much more efficiently. The glycolic acid is derived from sugar cane, which has excellent properties to aid in the elimination of bacteria from the skin, which in turn stimulates the production of collagen.

Your body is estimated to be about 60 to 70 percent water. Blood is mostly water, and your muscles, lungs, and brain all contain a lot of water. Your body needs water to regulate body temperature and to provide the means for nutrients to travel to all your organs. Water also transports oxygen to your cells, removes waste, and protects your joints and organs.

From July to October is monsoon season when most of Thailand's annual rainfall is accumulated. The humidity averages just under 90%, with temperatures averaging around 29° C in Bangkok.
